2009-10 Reaching Resolution

Implemented in hundreds of schools throughout California, Reaching Resolution is a nationally-recognized model for school-based alternative conflict resolution teaches youth how to resolve their own disputes using peaceful, positive alternatives and engages them as ambassadors on their campuses. Includes staff development, lessons for the classroom, a dynamic youth leadership camp and community service and showcasing activities, all designed to create positive, safe climates.

The Center for Youth Citizenship (CYC) has been a leader in school-based conflict resolution for over 20 years. Our training sessions are dynamic and interactive, focused both on individual skill development and on strategic approaches and the "nuts and bolts" for implementing integrated, school-wide models. Participants gain an understanding of their own conflict styles, how to communicate more effectively, and how to develop, implement and evaluate a school site plan.
